The inquest over the body of the boy, John D. N. Schaeffer, who was shot by William (W. Barker at $22 Sixth avenue on the night of $76b, 7$, was held yesterday by Coroner Young.

Mrs. Florence Brown did not see the shooting, and only knew of it from hearsay. She said the boys were in her house. Thomas H. Senior saw Schaeffer and Barker fooling together. He saw Barker pull a pistol, and heard him say, "I'll shoot you." Then he put it into his pocket again. Mrs. Brown entered the room, lighted the gas, and told the boys to keep quiet. When she went away Barker again drew the pistol and loosened the barrel. He cocked it, pointed it knoward Schaeffer, and snapped it. He taid again, "I'll shoot you." Schaeffer cried out, "Look out, you'll shoot me." He cocked it again, and pointing it to Schaeffer, pulled the trigger. It went off, and Johnnie was shot in the right Lemple. He had his hand up to his head when he was shot. When he fell Barker cried, "Oh! my God! what will I do?" He threw the pistol on the floor and kicked it under the bureau.

The jury rendered the following verdict after a very brief consultation:

That John D. N. Schaeffer came to his death by a pistol and wond of the head received at the hands of

MR. FLORENCE AS BOB BRIERLY. BETHESDA MISSION FAIR. THE GREAT BAZAAR OF KINGS

This domestic utensil is destined to work a complete revolution in kitchen economy. It makes every housewife independent of bad cooks. There is no such thing as spoiling food in its use. The Cooker has simply to be charged, and, like a wound-up clock, it right off, and the meats, poultry, fish, puddings, and vegetables are cooked superbly.

Annexed is a sectional view of the apparatus. This Cooker is a complete culinary establishment in itself. It is made of tin plate with copper bottom, and can be used on any range, cooking store, grate fire, open wood fire, or over a gas burner. It saves the time, labor, and discomforts attending the ordinary process. It saves there ounces to the pound of meats. It saves fuel, requiring only a heat sufficient to boil water. The most delicate sense of smell cannot detect in the house the slightest auggestion of cookery. The price of the article, which is comparatively trifling, will be saved in one month's use.

The meat is cooked without the access of air, water,

The meat is cooked without the access of air, water, or steam. The juices and flavor are all preserved.

So far as the meat is concerned, IT is NOT A STEAMER, but a steaming channer is added for vegetables, puddings, &c., as shown by the cut.

The principle of the thing is that a lightly-cosed vessei containing the meat to be cooked-is surrounded by steam, except at its bottom, which rests in boiling water, and at a small portion of the rests in boiling water, and at a small portion of the rest in in contact with the aportion of the rest in the contact with the water at 212 degrees. The exposure of the portion of the state that is not steamlecketed causes a loss of heat that reduces the temperature of the lossed cased to about 210 degrees, or 2 degrees existing that the lossed cased to about 210 degrees, or 2 degrees existed that is the best cooking heat, rendering even tough meat tender and palatable. The effect may be illustrated by saying that the whole COOKER,
